

One Pager Virtual Campus

socialprotection.org invites agencies, governmental and non-governmental organisations, research centres, think tanks and individuals dedicated to social protection to share and search for courses in the Virtual Campus.

socialprotection.org's Virtual Campus is an innovative search platform for accessing courses and webinars dedicated to social protection topics. Here, members and visitors can browse upcoming and past learning events.

Material in the Virtual Campus is classified into three categories: self-paced courses, instructor-led courses and webinars.

- Self-paced courses: courses designed to be followed at the student's own speed, with independent tasks and assignments.
- Instructor-led courses: synchronous and asynchronous courses guided by a tutor or instructor, with a specified schedule.
- Webinars: online seminars featuring presentations from social protection experts around the globe.

Members of socialprotection.org can add courses and webinars to appear in the Virtual Campus. To add a webinar or course, click on the "Share" tab and select the type of material you would like to add.

In addition, using our Moodle-based learning management system, partners can host self-paced and instructor-led courses. Please contact the socialprotection.org team if you would like to find out more about it.
